We had seen the speech favorably retered to and had been watching the Globe for it, but find that it did not appear in the regular course of printed debate, baving been withheld for revision. Mr. Willey is one of the few Senators who seldom consume the time of the Senate, but when he does speak there is no member of that body who commands more respectful attention. Nor is there one who can talk mere engagingly and eloquently than our own Senator when he warms up to the work. Resolved, That we profoundly deplore the untimely and tragic death of Abraham Lincoln, and regret the accession of Andrew Johnson to the Presidency, who has acted treacherously to the people who elected him and the cause he was pledged to Support; has usurped high legislative and Judicial functions; has refused to execute the laws; has used his high office to induce other officers to violate the laws; has employed his executive power to render insecure the lives, property, peace, liborty and life of the citizen; has abused the pardoning power; has denounced the National Legislature as unconstitutional; has persistently and nounced the National Legislatic as unconstitutional; has persistently and habitually resisted, by every means in his power, every proper attempt at the reconstruction of the States lately in ebellion; has perverted the public pat onage into an engine of wholesale cor ruption, and has been justly impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors and properly pronounced guilty there of by the votes of thirty-five Senators

Although neither of these resolutions nentions Mr. Van Winkle by name. yet they were introduced and passed as condemnation of his action, and have been passed after long, bitter and industrious efforts to demoralize the Legislature and prevent an expression. Mr. Van Winkle in the Legislature.
On Thursday the Senate adopted the following resolution by a vote of 16 to 2.
Resolved by the Legislature of West Virginia, That in the trial of Andrew Johnson. President of the United States, before the Senate, upon the against him by the House of Representatives, according to the published evidence there adduced, the said Andrew Johnson was, in our opinion, proven guilty of high crimes and missing demeanors, as in said articles charged; that we believe his conviction thereof would have been a vindication of law and justice, and of great and enduring advantage to the nation; and that it is to be deplored that a Senator from West Virginia should have felt constrained to vote said Andrew Johnson innocent, thereby securing his acquittal. Yesterday the House, after considerable discussion of the foregoing Senate resolution, adopted the following substitute for it by, we believe, the full Republican majority, the roll not being Accommittee of nine was appointed. Schley and W. S. Hawley, who reported the following, which were adopted unanimously:

WHEREAS, We, as citizens of the several States, irrespective of our political affiliations, believe that the learning, experience, ability and purity of Chief Justice Chase are an assurance of an administration conformable to the Constitution if he should be chosen President, and that we believe if presented to the people of our country for their suffrage, they would cordially unite upon him as one in whom they might hope for a happy reconcililation of the people of all the States under the just and benign provisions of our Federal Constitution; therefore

Resolved, That we desire Chief Justice Chase for the next President of the Union, as the man best entitled to our confidence and support, and that a committee of one hundred be appointed to promote his nomination by the Democratic Convention, which meets in New York on the Fourth of July next.

From the Springfield (O.) Republican, April 37.
On Wednesday we published a poem of peculiar merit from the pen of Mr. Pernal Williamson, in which, unfortunately, the word "rapt" was spelled w-rapt, giving it quite a different meaning. On Friday, the following note from Mr. Willaimson appeared in our paper, and was as much a surprise to the "responsible editor" as it was to the public. It was as follows:
"Mr. Nichols; I suggest that your confounder charged the biography of A. Ward in my piratical article of Wednesday last, which effected the scent. In the tired horse from the Bottom, for rapt acclaim, read wrapped in flame. I want the w admitted enwrapped. Respectfully, J. P. WILLIAMSON."
"April 17th, 1868."
The original of the note, although written in an illegible hand, such as poets and editors usually indulge in, we have ascertained read as follows:
"Mr. NICHOLS:—I regret that your compositor changed the orthography of a word, in my poetical article of Wednesday last, which affected, materially, the sense. In the third verse from the bottom, for 'wrapt acclaim' read 'rapt acclaim'. I want the w omitted in 'rapt.'
"Respectfully,
"J. P. WILLIAMSON."

A Mirage in Western New York.
A correspondent of the Rochester Union, writing from Batavia, New York, June 3, says: York, June 3, says:

On Monday last, while walking in the suburbs of the village, I was surprised to see, stretching away to the northeast, and apparently on a level with an adjoining meadow, a lake, the undulations of whose waves were plainly visible, and on which two steamboats and two sailing vessels were to be seen moving along. Far away in the distance was the Canadian shore. The pale blue-green tint of water was perfectly reproduced. The delusion was heightened by the rising ground in the meadow forming a bank gathering the shells and watching the breakers which it seemed must be at the foot of those little hills. I watched the mirage for nearly and hour, but returned before the disappearance of it. This mirage far exceeded the fine one of Lake Erie seen some weeks since at sunset, and which attracted universal attention.

"that is one of the edicts of Butler. It is the safest course to comply with the order, for Butler is a perfect despot, you know." So the Crecie sought out Moody and bought a quarter dozen shirts. In due time, a Paris paper arrived at New Orleans, in which the facts were narrated, as proving that Butler was both tyrannical and mean,

THE old spirit crops out in the followng resolution, adopted at a Conservative meeting in Warrenton, Fauquier ounty, Virginia:

"Resolved, That in view of the vital importance of the issues now presented, involving the purity, honor and existence of the white race in Virginia, we hold the white man who, in this crisis, does not identify himself with his race, by his vote, as unworthy of our association or countenance, and we will have no intercourse with such, either of a business or social character." icss or social character.

GRANT ON NORTHERN COPPERHEADS General Grant said in our hearing, not long ago: "The rebels we whipped, as it was our duty to do; they fought us bravely, and I for one have no spite ornvely, and I for one have no spite against them. If they behave them-selves, I shall think well of them. But the Company the Copperheads and peace men of the North—the men who, during the war, reviled the soldiers, encouraged the en-emy, and did their utmost to stop sup-plies and conference to stop supplies and reinforcements to our boys in front—such men I can't forgive; I will never forget them nor have anything to do with them.—N.
